RIVERVIEW EXPOSITION. Chicago's Greatest Amusement Ent prise Completed at a Cost of $5,000,000.

None of Chicago's other marvelous schlevements equal the great amusement on the control of the great amusement of the control of the control commodate 10,000,000. A trip to Chicago would be incomplete without a visit there.

RIVERVIEW EXPOSITION surpasses Caesar's ancient Circus Maximus where 5,000 dancers entertained Rome. Five thousand dancers could be lost in any one of its courts, esplanades, causeways or wooded groves. That many show girls, trick riders, Indians and cowboys are used in its "Frontier Day Fetes" alone.

Twice as many are accommodated in the amphitheater, where Mexican built fights occur. Wild buils and daring Toreadors daily enact thrilling contests for life and death. A Spanish band of 100 pieces discourses national music. Many military bands render open air concerts. The industrial exhibit includes wireless telegraphy, flying machines, dirigible balicous, aeroplanes and other machanical marvels.

RIVERVIEW EXPOSITION'S matchless attraction is "The Creation." This stupendous scenic spectacle, animated by Biblical characters of the Garden of Eden, is destined to attract world-wide attention, it is the product of the serious of E. W. McConnell, builder of several world's fairs, and his staff of a hundred artists.

The scene is the Valley of the Euhrates, where tradition locates Eden.
Awed spectators view as near to its reproduction as man may conceive. The great religious drama closely follows has Scripture.

reast religious drama closely follows has Erripture.

There is first a void, then darkness, dawn and lisht; separation of the sky, the earth and the waters; the beginning of life in the air, and the waters, birds, and fishes, creeping and crawling things, selectful anthems of unseen spirit bands; the creation of Adam and Eve, their lamptation, transgression and expulsion by Angel Gabriel, who, drives them forth with a flaming sword.

A great $25,000 pipe organ intones appropriate music. Its deep tubes produce thunder, and its flute-like notes the mimicry of forest small life. Flashes of lightning and angry storms are made by electrical and water effects. Space forbids an adequate description of this magnificent speciacle.

Another great novelty is The Races," great novelty is "The Races,"

RIVERVIEW EXPOSITION'S "Court of Honor" has hever been equaled since the Ancient Hanging Gartiens of Babyton. Its center is a lagoon of crystal water, through which flash myriads of silver and gold flash. The implie edges are fringed with emerald lawn set in rows of stately Lombardy populars. Case adde fountains play prismatic aprays high overhead and cooling mists float formward into the lagoon. Fantastic facedes and white partitions gleam through the trees as a marble setting for the beautiful landscape.
"Over Niagara Fails" reproduces on a measumoth scale the famous water-falls.

"Over Niagara Falls" reproduces on a mammoth scale the famous waterfalls. The inspiring strands of great bands, setter tones of orchestras, sounds of merriment from Joyous throngs, smill waters and forestry, gay show-places, the whier of serial cars and firing machines, whistless of miniature ratiroads, wecalization of the animals of "Circle D. Ranch," chanting Indians, the familiar "rooting" sethusiasts in the baseball park, the sheat owward movement of the river that course through the great park, and millians of activities that impart pleasure, mystery and delight, make RIVENVIEW EXPOSITION a place of magis, the like of which the world has mover seen.

Firecrackers

Twas the day before the Fourth of July and Freddie had no firecrackers, He could hear the boom, boom of the cannon-crackers all around where he lived, and every place he looked it seemed as if the ground was covered with cracking squibs, but he had Still Freddle was not unhappy. He was only impatient. When his father came home he thought all would be well, then there would be lots and lots of crackers.

Freddie met his father at the door and John Wilson, rough as he was softened under the lad's greeting.

"So Freddie wants some firecrack ers? What, Roman candles and squibs? What! And a whirl-a-gig? You mean a 'cartwheel,' don't you, Freddie, boy?' Without waiting for an answer the father caught his son with his hands below the arms and hoisted him or

"You'll have them, Fred," he said "and, what's more, your old dad will help you fire them off." Freddie's eyes shown like diamonds; he clapped his hands together in gle-and said: "Papa, you mind just be fore mamma lay that quiet I couldn' wake her no matter how I tried, she told me I'd never want for firecrack ers and soulbs and everything good on the Fourth of July. She was right too, wasn't she, papa? And she hasn' forgot me yet, either, papa, for when I was in bed last night I seen her al in white as close as anything to the bed, and she kissed me on both cheeks and said: 'Little Freddle will have a good time tomorrow. And that's right isn't it, papa?

The boy fixed his eyes with a confident look on his father and the par ent turned his head away. He was afraid to let Freddie see his countenance. For the boy's eyes reminded him of a face fixed on his memory forever. John recalled a face with lasting smile, with eyes that were the color of a clear sky on a summer's morning, and dark hair hanging in abundant glory around her head. for all that, he had been a hard drinker since Mary died one year ago to night. His position had gone, and, worst of all, Mary's boy had been ill-

"Yes, Freddie and papa will have a good time tomorrow," he said at last And now when my boy knows wha firecrackers and fun will be his in th morning, doesn't he want to go to bed and take a big, big sleep, so that h may be up bright and early in the morning to bang away the Fourth?"

The father laid Freddie down to sleep in his own bed. He watched the lad until his eyes closed in slumber and a little later, when perhaps the boy was looking again at that white figure, John turned and went out of the house to buy the firecrackers

Wiping a tear away on his coat sleeve as he reached the outside. John walked swiftly down the street toward the notion store. As he turned a corner a voice hailed him: "Hallo there, Jack! What's the rush?" Will son looked back and there stood the

Just as the sun on the Fourth o July a year ago was peeping through use Freddie opened his eyes, and without walting to look around called "Papa, papa, did you get the fire

But no answer came, for the father had not come back.

Freddle was surprised at his father's absence; it had often happened before during the past year, but: "Today, today was the Fourth, and where was papa with all the firecrackers?" Rising, the boy surveyed the dusty room. No papa, no firecrackers anywhere. Then he climbed out of bed and pattered into the kitchen, and still no father, no fire crackers. Returning to the bed Freddle buried his face in the pillow and cried himself into a broken slumber. A couple of hours later he awoke with a start, and again calling: "Papa, in the barn. nana." received no answer.

burst into tears, and crying, called: "Ma-ma, ma-ma, Freddie wants a firecracker." In time the crying grew tiresome and again the hunt began. All over the room he searched. Not a corner of the kitchen was left unexplored. In an old desk he found a revolver.

"Oh, look, look!" he cried, mamma sent me. He hugged the weapon tightly in both hands and carried it triumphantly to the bed. His eyes were aglow with pleasure. With all the might of his little fingers he pressed the trigger. A first, second, and third time the hammer fell. At each releasing of the spring he shouted with delight. His fingers grew tired, and the fourth time he tried to raise the hammer and failed. Still, not to be defeated, he turned the pistol toward his breast and put his thumbs on the trigger and pressed Slowly the hammer rose. Then was a report and Freddle fell back on the bed with the look of pleasure on his face changed to one of pain. An hour later his father came in.

He was sober, and in his arms was a pile of firecrackers. As he crossed the threshold he shouted: "Freddle boy, come here and look what papa has brought you." But no answer came. Thinking the boy was asleep he Freddie, here's papa; don't you want to see all the nice, blg firecrackers?" He walked into the bedroom. At the edside he stopped and let the firecrackers fall in a heap on the floor. As little thought beforehand will be bethe lifted Freddie in his arms the little ter than a sorrowful recollection of fellow opened his eyes, and with a look of wonder said: "Mamma, I'se had a good Fourth." Then a quiver and all vas over.

The father laid his boy down and a far-away look came into his eyes. He looked at the firecrackers and then riveted his gaze on the pale face of his dead son. He lifted the revolver. A report followed. But the firecracka lay intact on the floor.

A SAD FOURTH OF JULY.

The Day on Which Two of Amerlen's Greatest Patriots Died.

The Fourth of July, 1826, was the death day of two of the republic's greatest men. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson. On July 4, 1831, five years later, James Monroe breathed his last. Sixty years later, on July 4. 1891, Hannibal Hamlin died.

The death of both Adams and Jefferson on the day accepted as the nation's birthday was a strange coincidence. The day was one neither forgot, for both were among the signers of the immortal document which officially first saw the light just fifty years before their death, both remembered the date, and each was cognizant of the other's mortal illness.

Adams was past 90. Jefferson was about seven years younger. Yet he had thirteen years more than the threescore and ten years allotted by holy writ. At midnight eighty years ago, when independence day was just being ushered in, Jefferson, even then dying, but with memory not yet altogether impaired, muttered, the Fourth of July." In the morning Adams, the same thought apparently running through his mind, rouse himself to ask, "Does Jefferson still live?" Adams died a little after mid day, Jefferson a few hours later.

The senate's pin money pays for all the telegrams senators send and the replies. It supplies ice without stint; one month's bill, that for December, having been $248.58. It provides apollinaris, white rock and other special waters.

The miscellany fund buys typewriters and bicycles, horses, wagons, and, maybe, an auto or two, although none are found listed in the classified accounts. No senator was ever seen upon a bicycle. There are bicycle messengers, however, and the senate, be ing a big-hearted institution, gives the necessary machine.

From Jan. 1 to 31, 1908, Ida Bam-fley received $122.10 for washing and ironing 407 dozen towels for the sen-ate. In the same month A. L. Ford got $79.80 for washing and ironing 206 dozen towels. During the same thirty-one days Edith A. Washington profited to the sum of $66.60 for washing and ironing 222 dozen towels.

Pays for Funerals.
At the death of a senator the senate bears all the expense of the funeral, sends a committee to attend and provides a handsome floral testimonial. All of which swells the expenses of the "greatest legislative body in the world." In 1908 this source of outro proved unusually large, because there were eight deaths in the year.

The cost of a funeral to the senat runs in the vicinity of $5,000. One bill totaled in this wise: Washington undertaker, embalming, casket, carriages, hearse, removing and packing flowers, etc..... 50.00 hearse, carriages, transportation of flowers, twelve Expenses of B. W. Layton, who managed the funeral arrangements for the sen-

Total$4,341.23 The "use and transportation of chairs to and from church," above noted, cost $129.

When a senate committee decides that its quarters need refitting it makes a thoroughly good job of it. The case of the committee on interoceanic canals forms a good sample.

Mahogany Costs Money. Two sixty-inch mahogany, roll-top desks cost $264. Two smaller mahogany typewriter desks were secured at $98. Fourteen hamogany armchairs came to $215. Two ditto revolving G. Walker had ripped out the lower desk chairs cost $34.30. One mahogany bookcase is billed at $370. A ma hogany file case was obtained for $180. A committee table took $230 out of the contingent fund. Such other items as mahogany typewriter chairs, two window seats, one mahagany leatherette screen and more file cases brought the total to $1,856.00. These were bought in 1907.

In an effort to solve the problem of aerial navigation in au aeropiano oi his own make, U. Sorenson, the village blacksmith of Berwyn, Neb., fell 3,500 feet Monday afternoon and liver to tell of his frightful experience While the steel braces of the aeroplane were broken and twisted, Sorenson did not have a single bone broken. Half an hour after the accident he was making plans for a new aeroplane. Though his aeroplane did not work, it so broke the force of his fall that he was only stunned. Sorenson's ma chine is different from all others in that the start is made from a balloon Sorenson attached his new-fangled air navigator to an ordinary gas balloon and ascended to a height estimated a 5,500 feet. Then he cut loose from the balloon, hoping to make a gradual de scent. In the fall the machine turned over many times. Sorenson landed in sitting posture and this saved his Pirst Coffee in Europe, The first cup of coffee was drunk in Europe at Venice toward the end of the sixteenth century. The Venetian chronicler Morosini, in his records of the events in the year 1585, mentions the beverage called "cavee" drunk by the Turks and noted for its anti-sopo rific qualities.

In the year 1591 a Venetian doctor introduced the berries from Egypt, taught his countrymen how to crush them and brew the beverage, and the use of coffee soon became general, so much so in fact that Venice was full old. Senator Brown of Nebraska in opposing the increase asserted that even under the present tariff the Amerfcan mills had a big advantage over those of Canada, and declared that the cost of production of the Dominion was greater than in the United States. This statement was denied by Sena-tors Aldrich and Hale. The duty on Illustrated post cards was raised 325 per cent to shut out German competition. The Senate schedule on window glass was adopted fixing a lower duty than under the Dingley law or that provided in the House bill. After a wrangle of nearly an hour the Demo-crats in the House failed to obtain the passage of a resolution calling upon the State Department for the trans mission to the House of reports on for eign wages and cost of production in foreign countries, except Germany. Representative Hull of Tennessee, author of the resolution, made the point of no quorum. The House then adjourned, after a roll call, until Monday. The President's special message on corporation and income taxes was read at the beginning of the session.

The Senate Friday adopted, by vote of 44 to 32, the finance committee's amendment placing a duty of $4 a ton on print paper instead of $2, as provided in the House bill. Senator Brown's amendment for free print pa per was voted down, 52 to 29, Senator Lorimer, who had just been sworn in casting his first vote against the amendment. Shortly before adjourn ment Senator Balley's income tax amendment became a regular order of business, and an agreement was sought for the disposition of that Senator Aldrich stated that he was willing to take up the amend-ment and dispose of it when the schedules are completed. Senator Baile sought unanimous agreement by which the Senate would take a direct vote or the passage of his amendment, excluding any motion to refer it to a com This was not agreed to, and at the established hour, 7 o'clock, the Senate adjourned. The House was not in session.

The Senate Saturday covered a multitude of subjects in connection with the tariff, but made final disposition of nothing of importance. Beginning at 10 o'clock the income and corporation tax questions received attention for some time and ultimately were postponed, with the understanding that they should not be taken up again until after the tariff provisions proper should be finally settled. Senator Aldrich brought in the committee amendment to the wood pulp paragraph, which proved to be a provision for doubling the duty on wood pulp com-ing from countries which undertake to prohibit the exportation of logs to this country. Senator Beveridge presented an amendment for the cutting in two of the House ad valorem duty on cash registers. Mr. Aldrich also presented the finance committee's provision for a duty on hides. All these measures were brought to the attention of the Senate, but so far as action was con-cerned were left at the close of the they stood at the beginning. The House was not in session.

Action Against Nebraska Catholic Dignitary Follows Foud.

At Ulysses, Neb., a mob Friday night drove Catholic Bishop Bonacum, of Lincoln, and two priests who accompanied him out of town and threatened them with violence. The trouble of the evening had its origin in the long church feud between Bish op Bonacum and the Rev. William Murphy, for several years priest in control of the parishes of Ulysses and Seward. Bishop Bonacum excommu nicated Father Murphy, was sustained at Rome, and recently secured a ruling in the civil courts ousting Father Mur phy from the parish property. The majority of the parishioners through out the long controversy have stood with the priest the trustees at Saw ard at different times refusing to permit priests sent by the bishop to occu py the church.

The storm broke when Bishop Bon acum, accompanied by Fathers O'Brien and Kline, came to install them, respectively, at Ulysses and Seward Father O'Brien was sent out from the hotel to reconnoiter. He found the church strongly guarded and the aspect threatening. It was then decided to hold the formal ceremonies of tak ing possession of the church at the hotel, and this formality was begun. The mob on the outside of the hotel began making a demonstration.

Threats were made to "egg" the bishop, and at the most critical moment when it seemed that violence would be done Father Murphy arrived and pleaded with the people to commit no breach of the peace and to acqui themselves as law abiding citizens. He asked the people to protect from any violence the bishop and the priests.

Father O'Brien arranged for a vehi cle to take them out of the village Almost before the crowd knew what was being done the bishop and the two priests were loaded into the livery rig and a start was made for the country on the road to David City. The con veyance started away at a lively pace and it was some time before an auto mobile carry representatives of Fath er Murphy's flock went in pursuit The story told by the liveryman, who returned soon after without his pas sengers, was that he was overtaken on the road and his passengers were or dered to get out and walk. This they did, and then the liveryman was or dered to turn about and drive to Ulys es without loss of time. It was late at night that Bishop Bonacum and the priests went to a farmhouse for pro tection and engaged a farmer to take them to David City.

Amid plaudits from shricking thou-sands, Joe Matson, a Western speed annihilator, on Friday won the Indiana Trophy stock chassis race, the first event in the West's big two-day automobile meet. He drove his 25.6 horse power Chalmers-Detroit car over 282-74 miles on the Crown Point-Lowell course in 4:31:21, or at an average speed of 51½ miles an hour. He was sixteenth and last to start and third to cross the tape. The redoubtable George Robertson, winner of the Vanderbilt cup race last fall, was second in the Locomobile, covering the ground in 4:39:03. In third place ran A. Monsen, in a Marion car, his time be ing 4:42:03. Terrific bursts of speed were made at times over the best por-tions of the roadway, Burman in a Buick making one lap around the 23.27-mile course in 23:41, near enough to be a mile a minute to call it such. The best mile was at the speed of 71

President, in Special Message, Recommends Levy Upon the Net Earnings.

WOULD INVITE AID OF STATES.

Congress Advised to Seek Constitutional Amendment Allowing Assessment on Incomes.

Recommending legislation looking to the placing of a 2 per cent tax on the net income of corporations and also the adoption of an amendment to the constitution providing for the imposition of an income tax without an apportionment among the several states, President Taft Wednesday sent to Congress a message embodying his views on the subject. This action followed a protracted special meeting of the cabinet.

In his message the president speaks of the apparent inability of Congress to agree to an inheritance tax, and as regards an income tax, he refers to the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Pollock vs. the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, in which the court held the tax to be unconstitutional unless apportioned according to population. "It is," says the president, "undoubtedly a power which the government ought to have. It might be indispensable to the nation's life in great crises."

The amendment, therefore, he declares, is the only proper course. Such an amendment to the constitution, he contended, was preferable to the one proposed of reviving a law judicially declared to be unconstitutional. The amendment which he proposes should be made to the tariff bill provides for the imposition upon all corporations and joint stock companies for profit. except national banks (otherwise tax-ed), savings banks and building and loan associations, of an excise tax of 2 per cent on the net income of the rporations. This, it is estimated by him, will bring an annual revenue of $25,000,000. "This is a tax on privi-lege and not on property," he says, "and is within the federal power without apportionment according to popu-

The president points out that an other merit to the tax on corporations is the federal supervision, which will give to the government, the stockholders and the public knowledge of the real business transactions and the gains and profits of every corporation in the country. The adoption of the amendment, he says, will make a long step "toward that supervisory control of corporations which may prevent a further abuse of power."

EXPORT DECREASE $200,000,000.

Shipments in 1909 Fall Below Those of Three Previous Years.

A statement issued by the bureau of statistics in Washington, D. C., says that "it is now apparent that the exporce from the United States in the fiscal year, which ends with the present month, will fall materially below those of 1908 and 1907, and slightly below those of 1906." From statistics compiled by the bureau the total value of domestic merchandise exported in 1908 was $1,835,000,000; in 1907, $1,854,000,000, and in 1906, $1,718,000, 000. The bureau estimates that the domestic exports for the full fiscal year 1909 will be nearly $200,000,000 below the average of 1908 and 1908 and pgrhaps $50,000,000 below those of 1906. The cause of this marked decline in the export trade of the United States are ascribed as "practically those which have produced similar conditions in other parts of the world —a reduction in the general demand for merchandise and a material reduction in the prices of certain of the more important articles exported."

CHICAGO.

Business shows prompt response to the more seasonable weather and broadening of demands in the leading industries. Heavy financial operations in part account for the sus-tained high level of payments through the banks, but there is a notably better absorption of money for commercial use, together with a discount rate, which favors enterprise. Less complaint arises as to the course of lealings in the prominent retail lines, there being improved absorption of light weight apparel and general merchandise and an adequate reduction of stocks here and in the country. Wholesale dealing is well maintained in the staples, bookings showing fur ther increase for fall deliveries of dry goods, footwear, suits and clothing. Improvement is also seen in the buying of furniture, carpets and draperies.

The general demand for food products, jewelry, art wares and sporting goods makes a substantial advance. Heavy contracts are booked for future outputs in iron, steel, wood and leath er working, the principal products now drawing upon capacity, closer to the normal, while further progress is made in machinery and hands employed. Track needs furnish considerable tonnage for the rail mills, quite a portion being for South America The demand for light rails is the best in almost two years. The conversion of raw materials exhibits expansion and the prices are very firm for pig iron, lumber, minor metals, hides and, wool. Bank clearings, $282,057,748, exceed those of the corresponding week in 1908 by 28 per cent and compare with $243,541,754 in 1907. Failures report-$23,541,754 in 1907. Failures reported in the Chicago district number 26, against 21 last week, 33 in 1908 and 22 in 1907. The tendency is still toward improvement, the general crop situation, manufacturing industry and bookings for fall showing further gains, but ir regularities of weather still retard the fullest development of retail trade and thereby affect re-order business

The building trades probably lead in volume of activity, but there are still complaints that lumber is not selling as freely as

TAFT ASKS 2 PER CENT. TAX ON CORPORATIONS

President, in Special Message, Recommends Levy Upon the Net Earnings.

WOULD INVITE AID OF STATES.

Recommending legislation looking the net income of corporations and also the adoption of an amendment to the constitution providing for the imposition of an income tax without an apportionment among the several states, President Taft Wednesday sent to Congress a message embodying his views on the subject. This action followed a protracted special meeting of

In his message the president speaks of the apparent inability of Congress to agree to an inheritance tax, and as egards an income tax, he refers to the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Pollock vs. the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, in which he court held the tax to be unconstitutional unless apportioned according to population. "It is," says the presi-dent, "undoubtedly a power which the government ought to have. It might be indispensable to the nation's life in

The amendment, therefore, he declares, is the only proper course. Such an amendment to the constitution, he ontended, was preferable to the one proposed of reviving a law judicially declared to be unconstitutional. The amendment which he proposes should se made to the tariff bill provides for the imposition upon all corporations and joint stock companies for profit, except national banks (otherwise taxed), savings banks and building and loan associations, of an excise tax of 2 per cent on the net income of the corporations. This it is estimated by him, will bring an annual revenue o $25,000,000. "This is a tax on privi-lege and not on property," he says, 'and is within the federal power without apportionment according to population. The president points out that an other merit to the tax on corporations is the federal supervision, which will give to the government, the stockholders and the public knowledge of the real business transactions and the gains and profits of every corporation in the country. The adoption of the amendment, he says, will make a long step "toward that supervisory control corporations which may prevent a further abuse of power."

EXPORT DECREASE $200.000.000.

Shipments in 1909 Fall Below Those of Three Previous Years.

A statement issued by the bucesu of statistics in Washington, D. C., says that "it is now apparent that the exports from the United States in the fiscal year, which ends with the pres ent month, will fail materially below those of 1998 and 1997, and slightly below those of 1998. From statistics compiled by the bureau the total valne of donostic norchandise exported in 1908 was $1.835,000,000; $1.854,000,000, and in 1905, $1.718,000, The bureau estimates that the demostic exports for the full fiscal year 1909 will be nearly $200,000,000 below the average of 1908 and 1908 and perhaps $50,000 out below those of 1966. The cause of this marked decline in the export trade of the United States are ascribed as "practically those which have produced similar anditions in -a reduction in the general demand for merchandise and a material re-duction in the prices of certain of the more important articles exported."

Business shows prompt response to the more seasonable weather and broadening of demands in the leading industries. Heavy financial operations in part account for the sustained high level of payments through the banks, but there is a notably better absorption of money for commercial use, together with a discount rate, which favors enterprise. Less complaint arises as to the course of dealings in the prominent retail lines, there being improved absorption of to the placing of a 2 per cent tax on light weight apparel and general merchandise and an adequate reduction of stocks here and in the country. Wholesale dealing is well maintained in the stuples, bookings showing further increase for fall deliveries of dry goods, footwear, suits and clothing. Improvement is also seen in the buying of furniture, carpets and draperies. The general demand for food products, jewelry, art wares and sporting goods makes a substantial advance. Heavy contracts are booked for future outputs in iron, steel, wood and leather working, the principal products now drawing upon capacity closer to the normal, while further progress is made in machinery and hands employed. Track needs furnish considerable townage for the rail mills, quite a portion being for South America. The demand for light rails is the best in almost two years. The conversion of raw materials exhibits expansion and the prices are very firm for pig iron, lumber, minor metals, hides and.

The tendency is still toward improvement, the general crop situation, manufacturing industry and bookings for fall showing further gains, but irregularities of weather still retard the fullest development of retail trade and thereby affect re-order business with jobbers. In industrial lines the tendency is toward further expansion of operations. Numerous early cuts in wages have been restored and employment is more widely diffused. ew words on this subject would be of interest to the apiarist. By most bee-keepers the swarming of bees is hailed with great delight and looked on as a sure sign of bountiful honey harvest a little later on. This, however, is not looked on with so much favor by the prac-tical aplarist. Still it is a question with many whether a colony that has swarmed with its increase will store more honey in a season or whether one that does not swarm will store the most. This, I am sure, depends on the locality and the source from which your surplus honey is gathered. In this locality our first surplus honey usually comes from the mesquite bloom in April, and the flow usually lasts from twelve to fifteen days. With favorable weather and the bees kept free from the swarming fever we count on from thirty-five to forty pounds o surplus honey to the colony, but should the bees contract the awarming fever about the time the flow from the mer quite starts, then our hopes for a noney crop for the present is gone for bees bent on swarming will not store honey to the extent that a colony will that has no thought of swarming. However, locality and time of honey flow has all to do with this.

Our object in this locality is to do all we can to prevent swarming until after this honey flow, if we expect the est results in honey from this source

To allow them to swarm at this time would so divide up the working force of the bees that neither the par ent colony nor the new swarm would likely store much surplus honey from this short flow. Should the flow come from horsemint in June or from the cotton bloom in July or August, then the case is different, and it is only reasonable to suppose that the colony and its increase would store more surplus honey than the colony that had early, say the 1st of April, so that the two colonies would have time to regain their working force before the later flows come. Always try to keep the working force together when a

Stomach Worm Disease.

Medicinal treatment is not success ful in stomach worm disease, and farmers must depend on changing pasture to eradicate this nest.

Pastures which cannot be cultivated can be freed by burning and abandoning for eighteen months if washing of aterial from infested land is prevented.

On premises where calves are lost in such large numbers each year and where all the pastures are undoubtedly infested, it would be advisable to build a small pasture on high ground that has been under cultivation and unoccupied by stock for one or two seasons and through which no small streams flow. Calves when weaned can then be placed on this free pasture and kept there until they are old enough to withstand attacks of the parasites, about one year or eighteen months.—South Carolina Experiment Station Bulletin.

MAVING TRUTH

By Henry B. Cope. "The truth shall make you free."-John 8: 32.

One of the greatest difficulties in religious thinking is that its explanations tend constantly to become its laws. It is hard to keep its thought flexible, vital, and so developing. Every age tends to settle back on the de-scriptions of they islon of the age be fore it and declare that nothing may be seen beyond.

The creeds are but the definitions and analyses attempted by the past. They are accounts of what men were able to see and tell of their thoughts of the ways of the infinite among men. They differed Because no two men can occupy precisely the same point of view. But the intellectually slothful quickly seized such descriptions and set them up as final; they saved them the labor looking farther into truth.

Every creed has been at some time the rankest kind of heresy. It owed its vitality to that fact; when all can hant it without dissent, it ceases to have any power. It has memories but no vision; it recites history but it offers no prophecy.

Then new heretics arise. They are the men who tell not what their fathers saw but what they are trying to see for themselves. They dare to tell the truth of to-day in the terms of to-day. Whenever you dare to do that you may be certain to hear the stormy protests of those whose slumbers are disturbed by these new sounds.

No new truth is at first welcome many. Old leaders will fight it bitterly because it seems to them to neces sitate their doing their thinking all over again, and usually they are too old or have too long fallen out of the habit of thinking to contemplate that process with any pleasure. Their followers simply echo their alarms because they are told either to do so or

There are two types of mind every phere—those that crystallize an idea and those that fertilize it. Some view of truth comes to the first type, and it is immediately packed away in precisely the form in which it first ap peared. It cannot be changed; it must lither stay that way or be utterly shattered. That mind makes such a form a fetich.

The other type of mind receives truth as a living thing: its ideas are ever developing; each vision promises larger views. The explanation that seems to satisfy to-day is held as tentative always; it must grow in order to explain the larger facts that open up to-morrow. That mind never has a creed save as a matter of tem-

PLEA FOR OPTIMISM.

By Rev. Ernst A. Tappert. For what is your life.-James 4: 14, A Latin proverb says: "Art is long. ife is short." But life itself is an art which must be studied. There are two schools that teach the art of life, the pessimistic and the optimistic.

Pessimists arrive at the conclusion that life is hardly worth living. That however, is not the Christian idea of ife. True Christians are optimists and elleve that "all things work together for good to them that love God."

In the royal gardens of Potsdat there is an old sun dial which bears the inscription: "I count only the pleasant hours." One might envy it cent longer in France and 10 per cent for this prerogative that records none of the dreary hours, but only the sun-

There are some persons that have the faculty of overlooking and forgetthe death of his wife was defeated ling the disagreeable features of life and noticing only the pleasant sides. Such a sunny mind is certainly a great blessing and there is no reason why every Christian should not have it. There are hours of perfect happiness in everybody's life—hours which reimburse for years of suffering and woe the memory of which many years after lightens the worn face with happy smiles. But the pleasantest hours are not always the most profitable, and it is true indeed what is said in the Nineteenth Psalm, that our life's strength is labor and sorrow. There ire many of the pleasantest hours which we might just as well forget and there are many among the dark hours which have left behind a lasting ductive as possible. The large, final Detroit, Mich., for the termination of blessing. The most fruitful and valuable hours, those which give most impetus to the inner life, are, as a rule recently decided that it was time for not the pleasant hours of enjoyment the organization to go into politics, and mirth, but the grave and serious and it is probable that the union will hours, days of wee and nights of tears.

memory of which one would not part with for any price.

The holy scripture calls life a "sowing of seed" and says: "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." A selfish life, though it be clean, is without charm and beauty. A sinful and contaminated life is still worse remorse and self-accusation make it a hell on earth.

The only life worth living is the one of which Christ has left us an example. Devoted to the service of others, full of that all-conquering love that is strong as death, it brings light and happiness into dark places and bears that sweet and blessed fruit which is promised to all. Such a life is neither tiresome nor ever a cause of regret, but finds grace before God and man. May we all try to master this wonder ful art and life will become more content, more interesting, more p tive of good from day to day until at last it becomes a sweet, harmonio song to the glory of life's Creator.

IMPORTANCE OF HABIT.

By Rev. De Witt L. Pelton Teach me, O Lord, the way of Thy statutes and I will keep it until the and .-- Psalm 119:33.

Our virtues are habits as much as our vices. Honor, courage, purity, punctuality, prayer and kindness are habits as much as are swearing, drunkenness and lying. When this truth is once perceived it makes a revolution in conduct. Morality with many canslats in trying to correct evil limbits rather than in striving to form good cues. Human life is largely automatic. We are in reality "walking bundles of To each sort of impression we have an automatic ready-made response.

The sort of habits we are forming is therefore of the greatest importance. and we are forming habits of some kind whether we attend to them or not. We should strive, therefore, to acquire such habits as will strengthen and improve our natures.

This physical organism of ours. which is the clay which, by continual reiteration, is gradually shaped along lines which finally control the ordinary actions of life. Impressions made upon the nervous structure of the brain tend to repeat themselves until well-traveled roads are formed along which ideas frequently passing make highways of the soul. These are habits and control the life.

Bad habits may be checked and good habits formed by making what we de sire habitual in our lives. Prof. James numerates two rules in the formation of habits-first enter upon the forms tion of such habits with as much de termination as possible in order that the initiatory force with which a habit is launched may be as great as possible: secondly, never suffer an excep tion to occur until a new habit is securely rooted in the life.

religious life, like other desirable things, should be put under the domain of habit. How can we progress religiously if we live helter skelter in a hit-or-miss fashion? Right thoughts, right emotions, right deci sions in the religious life as in the daily life of busines, must be made habitual. Habit should be the rule in prayer, in church attendance, in the receiving of the holy communion, in times of meditation, in acts of kind ness, in deeds of service. Only so shall we become fit followers of Him who lived in habitual prayer and whose life was spent in doing good Contemplation of the power of habi should not make anyone despair. Even in the worst cases there is hope. History is full of examples, from St. Paul down, in which the habits of a lifetime have been broken under a supreme compelling impulse. The power of the Divine Spirit is omnipotent in human affairs. The worst prodigal can re form. Behind all our efforts there is the power of God. With all His powe the habits of a lifetime can be broken and a life of new habits begun.

The Misadventures of Parrish

By H. Gmald Chapia

As Parrish, our corpulent and absent-minded bookkeeper, told it next morning the story was not altogother devoid of humor. "You all know." he began. "how !

had to stay late fixing up a trial balance, It must have been fully 12 o'clock before I left the office. You also remember what kind of weather it was—sleet, snow, and all that. I was pretty well fagged out, and it did seem as though those everlasting col-umns of figures would never quit dencing up and down in my head. All the way over to my flat they kept it up, and, what with the cold and the figures, I knew it was no use trying to get any sleep just then. Now, the best thing in the world when you feel that way is a bath—hot or cold according to whether it's winter or summer-and I sneaked upstairs quiet, thinking how nice and restful one would feel. Mrs. Parrish is a light sleeper, so I slipped into the bathroom, turned on the water, undressed, and it didn't take me very long to drop in. Great Scott, didn't it feel I just lay back still and quiet and almost dozed off right there and

"'Come, come,' I said to myself, 'this will never do,' and I started to get up—only started, mind you, for then the awful part of the evening began. Not an inch could I move stuck fast. I tried and tried to slew my shoulders around or to get some my shoulders around or to get some sort of a purchase on the edge of the tub, but the sides were high and it was no go. Then I tried to push up with my elbows. You know how impossible it is to get a mustard plas-ter off your own back. Well, it was just like that. I did get a little place loose, but it felt as though the skin had come off with it.

"You can bet I was scared, but this was nothing to what happened after-

"I told you I'd been thinking of figures andwondering how that things hadn't straightened themselves out well, I can't explain it, somehow, in looking around the bath-room for something to help pry my-self loose with, the place struck me as considerably changed. Our medicine closet hadn't any mirror; Mrs. Parrish never hung the towels on a rack like that—why, those weren't our towels; that was a "C" marked them. Good Heaven! I got all t and cold at once. It wasn't our bathroom. Then it came over me like a flash. Our flat was on the fourth floor. We'd only lived there a eek, and our previous flat, where we'd been five years, was on the third. in my awful absentmindedness I'd probably gone up two flights and, without thinking, walked right in.
The keys just happened to fit. Same as it was in 'Called Back,' you re-

"Now, if I was in a fix before, you can imagine what it was now. I simply had to get out. The new enamel seemed to get harder and harder all the time. They had put it on the day before, so I found out later, and while it was all right when I stepped in, the hot water had soft-

"I suppose I must have made some noise, for the next thing on the program was when I heard a window letting off a volley of yells. I tried to shout some sort of an explanation, but she wouldn't even come to the door to hear my story, and kept on howling 'Thieves!' 'Murder!' and every other thing that came into her silly head. I never did think much of that woman, anyway. She's the norvous, erratic kind, and I guess just as well her husband's on the road most of the time. If she was my wife I'd take to drink. Anyhow, they tell me she raised the entire block.

"Truth Above All Things"

"Above all things, George," she coved on the way to the train for the wedding journey, "let us be truthful with each other—in everything. It means so much to a woman, you know absolute and perfect confidence in her husband."

"Oh, to be sure," George replied, moving the end of her hat quill out of his ear. "There can be no such confidence between man and wife as there should be without entire truth and frankness."

. "I'm awfully glad you agree with me," she said, "Do you think I look bridey, George, dear?"

He drank her in with his eyes.
"You couldn't look any more so if your hat was trimmed with vice and old shoes. You look like a going-away gown in a fashion book."

"Oh, George!" she exclaimed with disappointment. "I so hope nobody would know. They make such fun of people—on trains"

"I don't see how you'd expect any thing else when you swish along with a typical bride's outfit—all new, and you blushing like a ripe peach every time anybody looks at you," George declared.

"But I thought I looked-well, different," she urged.

HOW ARTIFICIAL ICE IS MADE. COST OF MUSICAL EDUCATION New Process Tried and Found Feasible In Germany Is Adapted to Any Locality.

A new process of icemaking was tried in Germany last winter with such success that it has been suggested for those sections of the United States where, on account of lack of lakes or rivers, the price of ice is high. Consul General Guenther of Frankfort describes the process as fol-

"A large wooden framework two stories, each ten feet high, is put up. Each story has a cover of 18 parallel beams. Through the center a pipe in cased to prevent freezing runs up to the upper cover. This pipe is con-nected with the water supply.

Ambitious Singers Need Large Amount of Money During Their Beason of Training.

The recent revelation of the huge cost of educating a young woman for the operatic stage should have a deterrent effect on the ambitions of the thousands of American girls who have been hoping to rank with the Sembrichs and Melbas of the future, not to mention the Gardens and Farrars. One young woman of renown as a lyric histrion has lately puld back to her early benefactors the cost of her musical education, to wit, $20,000, with more or less interest. It may money she was careful to let her left hand know what her right hand did. The announcement is now made that one of her most prosperous rivals has lately returned $34,000 to the benefactor who secured to her the advantages of training in the musical schools of Europe. That this fact is the patron of the other singer dwells is, of course, purely accidental.
